Losy .- We promised to give the perfect oligarchy ever known on this continuent.

In the State convention which is to decide whether South Carolina is to remain in the Union or to go out of it, the same inequality of representation prevails which we have observed in the Legislature. Thus, even if a large majority of the people of the State are opposed to secession, the minority, and a samil minority too, have the power to declare the State out of the Union. It so happens that the populous districts which have the fewest representatives in the convention are those in which the traitors are fewest in number, and thus one man in the disunion sections of the State will have as much authority in deciding the grave question of second convention of the day; whether his second effort the antiority in deciding the grave question of second conventions of the State will have as much authority in deciding the grave question of second conventions of the State will have as much authority in deciding the grave question of second conventions of the State will have as much authority in deciding the grave question of second conventions of the State will have as much authority in deciding the grave question of second conventions of the State will have as much authority in deciding the grave question of second conventions of the State will have as much authority in deciding the grave question of second conventions of the day; whether his second effort the ment of the state and state that the propose the second convention are those in which the traitors are fewest in number, and thus one man in the distinct of the propose that the propose that the propose that the propose the second convention are those in which the traitors are fewest in number, and thus one man in the distinct of the propose that the propose the convention are those in which the traitors are fewest in number, and thus one man in the distinct of the propose that districts in the State!

It is clear that, if they were sincere republicant and were sincered hostile to despotism in government, the first step they would take would be to break up the intolerable despotism that prevails in their own State. Were the General Government as detectable, then it would be entitled to all the fierce objurgations that the lips of secessionists are in the habit of utterings.

The inequalities in the representation of the State in the Legislature do not result from property. The Pendleton district contains five times as many claves and pays four times as much State-tex as the parish of St. Thomas and St. Dennis, and yet in the Senate and in the self-respection it does not enjoy any greater representation of duty, to require of the government is too plain to be mistal en or paltered with. We are at peace with Spain and are bound by the most contains five times as many claves and pays four times as much State-tex as the parish of St. Thomas and St. Dennis, and yet in the Senate and in the convention it does not enjoy any greater representation of mankind, all unite with the highest obligations.

The recent barbarity of the Cuban authorities has made a profound impression upon the prevail. Carolina. In that excellent State a poor man is an "unconsidered trifle," while his rich neighbor is a lord. No poor man can be Governor, or Senator, or Legislator, or Representative in Congress, nor can he aspire to any other office, as the rich man in the Legislature will not vote for poverty so long as they can place one of their own class in office. Poverty is a crime in South Carolina.

Description of the Cuban authorities has made a profound impression upon the masses in this country, which will render them eager to avenge the cruel deed. From present indications we fear there is just ground to apprehend, that by many, the law will be trampled under foot, and our obligations to a friendly power for gotten, in their zeal to avenge the blood of their unfortunate countrymen.
